

HistoryandTheory Mon, May 19, 3:27 PM (13 days ago)

to historyandtheory-glist@wesleyan.edu

Our June 2025 issue is out now!

To read the rest of the issue, visit our website or the issue's page on the Wiley Online Library.

Issue Contents

- Articles

- Marnie Hughes-Warrington, Ethics for Artificial Historians
- Vinsent Nollet, Philosophy of History as a Critique of Violence: History, Theology, and Politics in Walter Benjamin's Early Writings
- Abhishek Kaicker, From Eternity to Apocalypse: Time, News, and History Between the Mughal and British Empires, 1556–1785
- Nagatomi Hirayama, “Civilization” or “Empire”? “China” as a Historical Entity in Contestation

- Lecture

- Joan W. Scott, “A Guesser in This Vale of Tears”: On the Politics of History Writing
- Review Articles
 - Margrit Pernau, Decolonizing Theory and Concepts: Perspectives from the Global South
 - Ian Hunter, Creative Disintegration: The Perpetual Emergence of Modern Political Thought
 - Terence Renaud, Historical Antifascism and the Global Left

--

History and Theory is an international journal devoted to the theory and philosophy of history. For more information, visit our website (<https://historyandtheory.org/>) or contact us at historyandtheory@wesleyan.edu.

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "History and Theory" group.

To unsubscribe from this group and stop receiving emails from it, send an email to historyandtheory-glist+unsubscribe@wesleyan.edu.

To view this discussion visit

<https://groups.google.com/a/wesleyan.edu/d/msgid/historyandtheory-glist/CY4PR04MB10015DFE9A950FB5FD031A75AA9CA%40CY4PR04MB1001.namprd04.prod.outlook.com>.